DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
The Armiger House is believed to have been built by the same Shipwright and house carpenter as nearby "White Oak" (AA-42-L-A). (#250) Other than the similarity of these two houses there is no substantiation to this tale. The house stands on a large farm. It is invisible from the road, at the end of a long tree-lined lane. The owner plans to begin a restoration project this year. A two story ^{a/} fine structure on the traditional side-hall, double-parlor, plan, the main house has two large exterior chimneys with a brick pent closet between them. There is a small, one story, kitchen attached to the rear of the house by a low, enclosed breezeway. The kitchen chimney also serves a small loft room lit by tiny end windows. The shed-roofed, enclosed, porch on the east side of the kitchen and breezeway is a 20th century addition. The house appears to have its original siding. A screened porch over the front entrance and a brick furnace room beside the south chimney are recent additions. This property has belonged to the Armiger family for many generations. The present owner has records and diaries from the early 19th century, pertaining to the family and the land. The names Benjamin C. Neff and D. Neff are recorded on the 1860 and 1878 county maps as respective owners of the farm.
